QUARTERLY SPOTLIGHT

PERSON WE SUPPORT

DIRECT SUPPORT PROFESSIONAL

OF THE QUARTER

Zachary Carter and David Sanchez

David didn’t just know how to watch wrestling on television with Zach; he knew that nothing, and we mean nothing, beat the spectacle of a body slam. On this day, after seven years as Zach’s Direct Support Professional, or more simply, his wrestling-loving buddy, David had the best kind of plan.
Forget watching the matches on television; Zach and David were headed to watch wrestling LIVE.
The noise inside the arena was absolutely thunderous. Zach had never seen everything look so big, or the wrestlers look so strong in real life. It was pure, loud fun made even better by having David at his side. Zach and David cheered for their favorite wrestlers, thrilled to share this experience.
For David, the main event wasn't the wrestling; it was watching Zach light up like that. Seven years in, this wasn't just work; this was two best friends having the best day ever, thanks to one very important, shared love of wrestling.

We are currently seeking Direct Support Professionals in many areas of the state. Contact us to find out about positions available in your area.

Employment Services

Building Skills. Creating Opportunities. Preparing for What's Next.

This fall, Myers-Davis Employment Services launched its High School Employment Services (HS-ES) Work Readiness Program in partnership with Springdale Schools. After months of planning and collaboration, the agreement was finalized this summer, and the program began August 10.

HS-ES helps students prepare for employment and greater independence after high school. Students explore careers, build résumés, practice interview skills, learn workplace etiquette, set employment goals, and gain hands-on work experience. They can also receive support connecting with community employment resources and vocational rehabilitation services. Beyond preparing for a first job, the program gives students opportunities to discover their strengths and interests, build confidence, and understand workplace expectations while they are still in school.

Sabrina Crayton serves as the HS-ES Lead Teacher, with support from the Employment Services team. Together, they are helping students put these skills into practice and explore what their futures could hold.
We're proud to partner with Springdale Schools and look forward to celebrating our students' progress as they take these next steps!

Skills Training Center

One of our students recently started a new job and moved on from the program. While we miss having him around, we're proud of his hard work and excited to cheer him on in this next chapter!

Happy Made Goods is getting ready for the holiday season! Sidney and Kelly have been busy building up our stock, and we're preparing to introduce a few new products. You can also find our team at weekly markets, sharing the products our students work hard to create.

Follow our facebook at HappyMadeGoods for updates and sneak peeks, or shop anytime at happymadegoods.com. Keep us in mind as you start your Christmas shopping!

CES Waiver

Growing Together
From one Waiver member and a dream in 2021 to 861 Waiver members today, Myers-Davis has so much to celebrate! Behind that growth are the relationships, hard work, and heart our team brings every day.
As we grow, our purpose stays the same: making sure every member feels supported, valued, and encouraged. To our staff, members, and families, thank you for being part of this journey. Every goal reached and every step toward greater independence reminds us why we do what we do! 💚

DID YOU KNOW?

We have a Human Rights Committee dedicated to serving your needs! What is a Human Rights Committee? It's a team of people who recognize the importance of the individual rights of a person with disabilities. This team works together to review any restrictions of rights and prevent any future rights restrictions. If you feel like someone you support is experiencing a restriction on any of their rights, you can always present it to the Human Rights Committee for them to look into.

The committee's email address is: rightscommittee@myersdavis.com

Right of the Quarter

The Right to Access Quality Healthcare

Quote of the Quarter

"Small steps toward independence can lead to big possibilities."

Topic of the Quarter

Universal Design

Universal Design is creating spaces, products, and information that people with a wide range of abilities can access and use. It helps reduce barriers so more people can participate independently.

Example: Providing an entrance without steps, videos with captions, or instructions with both pictures and words.

Choosing the right approach: Think about the different ways people move, learn, communicate, and access information. Offer options that are easy to understand and use, and ask for feedback about what works best. Planning for different needs from the beginning helps create a more accessible and welcoming experience for everyone.
